Announcements

Senior Dean Selected!

The SRC Division is excited to announce that Kenyetta Tribble is now our permanent Senior Dean!! Her selection was approved at last night's Governing Board meeting and it is now official!

Kenyetta has proven to be an incredible leader and has supported all of us at the San Ramon Campus with wisdom and empathy and has inspired us with her talents and work ethic. We are proud and elated to call her our Senior Dean! Congratulations Kenyetta!

Food Bank

SRC, in partnership with the Contra Costa/Solano Food Bank, will be distributing boxes of non-perishable food to SRC students in need on a monthly basis. The first distribution date is Thursday, October 29th in the afternoon (exact time still to be determined). The distribution site will be in the SRC main parking lot and students will need to bring their DVC student ID with them. Would you like to volunteer to help distribute boxes? Please email Jen (jtejada@dvc.edu) to get signed up!

Library News

Did you know the library has created research guides for every discipline? Each guide presents curated information about books, articles, career and online resources related to your subject. We update these regularly so if you have ideas for content that should be added or new guides we need to create, just let your SRC Librarian, Amanda Choi know. Some of the exciting guides DVC Librarians created this Fall include a Black Lives Matter Guide, a Vote 2020 Guide, a new DVC Citation Guide updated for APA 7th edition and last but not least, a guide for the SRC Pandemic Experience Project.

Construction Updates and Photos

Our construction project continues to make progress on our new Library/Academic Support Center building and the new Café!

Upcoming Events

Meet the Author events at SRC!

Author: Ayize Jama-Everett

The SRC Language Arts Department presents a conversation with author Ayize Jama-Everett who will be hosting a reading and discussion of his book, The Entropy Of Bones on Friday, Oct. 30th at 6pm. This is a Webinar Event.

Ayize Jama-Everett calls the Bay Area his home despite being born in New York City. He holds a Master's in Divinity, a Master's in Clinical Psychology, and a Master's in Fine Arts, Creative Writing.

In 2009, Jama-Everett self-published The Liminal People, which was later picked up and distributed by Small Beer Press. He's written two more books in the series, The Liminal War (2015) and The Entropy of Bones (2015). The fourth and final installment in The Liminal Series is forthcoming from Small Beer Press. Jama-Everett has also written a graphic novel entitled Box of Bones with two-time Eisner Award winner John Jennings.

Author: Jennifer Lee

Kudos to Katie Ziegler who arranged for her Eng 223: Short Story Writing students to hear from two authors, Jennifer Lee and Stephen Statler. Katie's students will have a private in class session with Jennifer Lee, where they will listen to the author and engage in a writing workshop on Thursday, October 15th.

Jennifer recently moved to California after eleven years in Seoul and Shanghai, and is still trying to learn the local dialect, which seems to involve wearing yoga pants. She has a BA and MA from Stanford University and an MFA from City University of Hong Kong. Her fiction has appeared in Your Impossible Voice, Drunken Boat, and the anthology Afterness: Literature from the New Transnational Asia.

Author: Stephen Statler

Stephen Statler will be speaking on Thursday, October 29th at 7 pm and this talk is open to the entire campus community.

Stephen Statler's work has appeared in McSweeney's, Bull, Punchlines and other magazines. His screenplay, Little Dan, was a semifinalist for the Nicholl Fellowship. Big Time, a screenplay co-written with Mouncey Ferguson, was recently optioned by Gulfstream Pictures. He is currently at work on a novel, Dionysus in Glenhaven.

Please encourage your students to attend and we look forward to seeing you there as well!

To attend Stephen Statler's talk, join the Zoom Meeting by using the following link:

Passcode: ENGL223

“Ask A Health Worker” Event

Please let your Allied Health students know about the “Ask A Health Worker” Event on 10/28/20 at 7pm. Physiology Professor Sam Glaves has arranged for an outstanding panel of professionals in the health care field, including a registered nurse, Emergency Department member and rehab/physical therapist from San Ramon Regional Medical Center.

Students can ask panelists about schooling options, applications and licensing for various Health worker professions, day-to-day job responsibilities, as well as changes to the profession brought about by COVID19. If you have any questions about the event, please contact Sam at rglaves@dvc.edu

👍 Cool Things Going On & Congratulations!

ECE Workshop

Well done ECE Department! On October 7th the Early Childhood Education department held a Zoom gathering for students who were completing a certificate or degree this semester to help them learn about the requirements and complete the online application process before the October 15th deadline. This is a great example of supporting students through the final stages of their academic experience!

Women Crushing it in Science

A huge shout out to women in science this past week with Jennifer Doudna and Emmanuelle Charpentier winning the Nobel Prize in chemistry!

Read the article in the East Bay Times on the Nobel Prize winners.

Anna Levin shared a photo of our SRC Bio 102 students celebrating by building their own DNA molecule. We are sure that a Nobel is in their future as well!

As two women are awarded the Nobel Prize in Chemistry for their work in genetics, Bio 102 students start their exploration of the structure and function of genes by building their own DNA molecule.

What pioneering contributions will these young scientists make to their fields someday?

Education Technology Update

Online Education and Canvas
